How many GWh of battery energy storage systems are installed in 2023? 1. European battery storage market growth: inflection point toward next stronger growth phase In 2023, Europe installed 21.9 GWh of battery energy storage systems (BESS), marking the eleventh year of record-breaking annual additions since 2013, when our records began. The latest additions show that European policymakers help the battery storage sector? Recommendations How can European policymakers help the battery storage sector? Battery storage systems are essential for strengthening the EU's energy security and competitiveness by enhancing flexibility, providing ancillary services to secure the grid, maximising the use of renewable energy, and effectively dealing with energy price volatility. Is France ready for a battery industry? Given the strategic nature of the battery industry and its economic significance, the emergence of a French industrial offer has been France's top priority. In 2022, France launched the Plan Batteries, subsequently extended by France 2030, aimed at accelerating the development of a national battery industry. Why is France launching a battery industrial offer? European demand for batteries is growing fast and is set to increase 14-fold by 2030, mainly driven by the electrification of transport. Given the strategic nature of the battery industry and its economic significance, the emergence of a French industrial offer has been France's top priority. What happened to the European battery fleet in 2023? The total running European battery fleet to 61.1 GWh at the end of 2023. However, the annual growth rate slowed down to 15% in 2023 after three consecutive years of doubling newly added capacity (see Fig. 1). This deceleration was expected, as the astounding surge observed during 2020-2022 was predominantly driven by residential PV storage. Will battery demand continue to grow? Therefore, battery demand in 2024 and will continue doing so in 2025. Despite the notable decrease in household PV installations across the top five markets, attachment rates have been kept constant in 2023 in Germany (79%) and the United Kingdom (54%), as home solar & storage has become the standard. European Market Outlook for Battery Storage - It covers key market trends, with a particular focus on the shift toward utility-scale storage, the continuing growth of residential and commercial installations, and the evolving role of storage in the power system. France's battery market expected to expand rapidly by 2030. The battery storage market in France is expanding rapidly, but with deployment dominated by the development of large batteries, markets are at a higher risk of saturation.
