Is flexibility a good investment in France for grid-scale battery projects? Aurora Energy Research has published a flexibility market report showing a significant improvement in market conditions in France for grid-scale battery projects. What is the 'France' tax credit? This initiative aims to support the industrialization of green technology equipment, complementing the existing EUR54 billion "France" subsidy program. This tax credit will be valid for all projects decided on before the end of , giving France a 2-year window to welcome as many projects as possible in the battery sector. Are batteries balancing the French electricity mix? The French electricity mix continues being dominated by nuclear, gas, and hydro, but as aging nuclear assets retire, Aurora sees batteries playing a critical role in balancing the system. The global power markets analytics provider highlights the need for developers to consider ancillary service market saturation risk in investment decisions. Will high-consumption batteries benefit from higher import tariffs? Aurora estimates an additional 2% increase in IRR above the reference case, driven by consumption during peak production periods. However, batteries located in high-consumption areas are not expected to experience significant benefits, as higher import tariffs would offset revenues during peak hours. The battery storage market in France is expanding rapidly, but with deployment dominated by the development of large batteries, markets are at a higher risk of saturation. Fixed-price offtake agreements can significantly enhance returns under adverse scenarios and de-risk investments, with fair value estimates ranging between 94EUR and 103.3 EUR kW/year. PARIS (AURORA ENERGY RESEARCH)--Analysis by Aurora Energy Research estimates that by , France will reach a 179% European demand for batteries is growing fast and is set to increase 14-fold by , mainly driven by the electrification of transport.
