GOM procurement and contracts are governed by Article 134 of the Mexican Constitution, the Public Procurement Act (Ley de Adquisiciones, Arrendamientos y Servicios). It starts with an overview of the size and process of government procurement, followed by a section on project financing to help exporters bidding on major public sector projects in Mexico. The Government of Mexico (GOM) purchases large volumes of raw material, repair parts, finished goods, and hired services to execute important infrastructure and construction works, not to mention supplies for the broad scope of government functions, including a government-run hospital and declining costs for renewable generation capacity, combined with high-quality resources for solar photovoltaics (PV) and wind, present an opportunity for Mexico to economically meet its growing electricity demand, reduce electricity costs, and reach its commitments to achieve 50% generation from Mexico's government procurement, a behemoth representing 25% of its total spending, thrives on transparency and competition. Guided by the Constitution and laws like LAASSP, it operates through CompraNet, an online platform showcasing all bids. Public tenders are the norm, ensuring fair play and the system comprised 17 kW photovoltaic cells, ten wind turbines with a capacity of 70 kW, an 80 kW diesel generator and a flooded lead-acid battery bank. The original batteries lasted only two and a half years before they needed to be replaced as their capacity had declined to less than 80%. 1 Mexico Tenders -Find Live Business Contracts for your Product and Services in Mexico invited by multiple Procurement Agencies from Mexico through eTendering, eProcurement, eAuction platforms of Mexico Procurement Departments.
